The Logo

Concept

Seeing patterns, connections, gaps and opportunities. Imagining possibilities by connecting the dots.

The logo is sacrosanct in its form and construction. At no point can it be altered or reworked. It is always to be used as it is.

Master Logo - Greyscale

This is the primary logo lockup in greyscale.

We use two tones of grey to accurately match the colour version of the logo.

The greyscale logo should only be used when printing in colour is not an option.

Exclusion Zone

A clean space helps highlight the logo, giving it greater prominence. A clearly defined exclusion zone should, therefore, always be maintained around the logo.

This is calculated by using the height of the letter “s” of the logotype. Ensure that it is never compromised and encroached upon by any graphic, text or imagery.

Logo Usage – don’ts

Do not try to recreate the logo for any reason. Its alignment and placement should not be altered Always use the complete unit from the master artwork file.

DO NOT change the colour of any part of the logo

DO NOT use the logo in a single colour, unless specified

DO NOT change the orientation/ angle of the logo

DO NOT place the logo on a background that will hamper the logo visibility

DO NOT place the logo on a photograph that will hamper the logo visibility

DO NOT scale individual elements of the logo in any way

SUNBIRD

Typography

Selection of Typefaces

Sunbird uses Rubik and its different weights for all its communication.

No other typefaces can be used for Sunbird brand communication.

This is an open source typeface, and can be downloaded from Google Fonts:

PARAGRAPH & BODY TEXT
Rubik

Open source refers to something that people can modify, share and re-use because its design or “source code” is made publicly accessible.

SUNBIRD

Visual Language

Visual Metaphor

The visual design is based on the metaphor of 'connecting dots' – imagining possibilities by connecting the dots.

Our visual language extends this idea in multiple ways – through the use of constantly connecting multiple types of dots; typographically, as well as in motion.

At no point, should the dots become a meaningless graphic element. These are not polka dots used as a pattern. They are to be used only when connecting ideas, patterns, and opportunities.

Connecting dots

Typography Treatment

The typography expands on the idea of the linear and non linear possibilities.

The connect-the-dots in the typography is to visually communicate the creation or building of new ideas and solutions.

It takes forward the logo concept in prompting a viewer's mind to complete the connection of dots to form a whole picture.

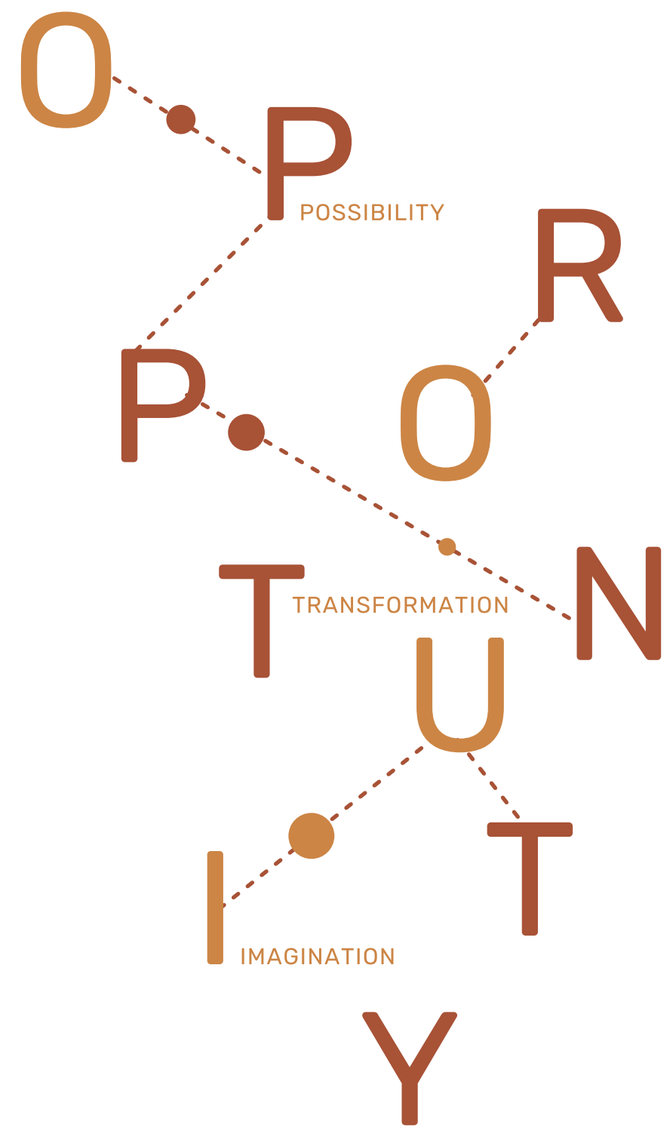

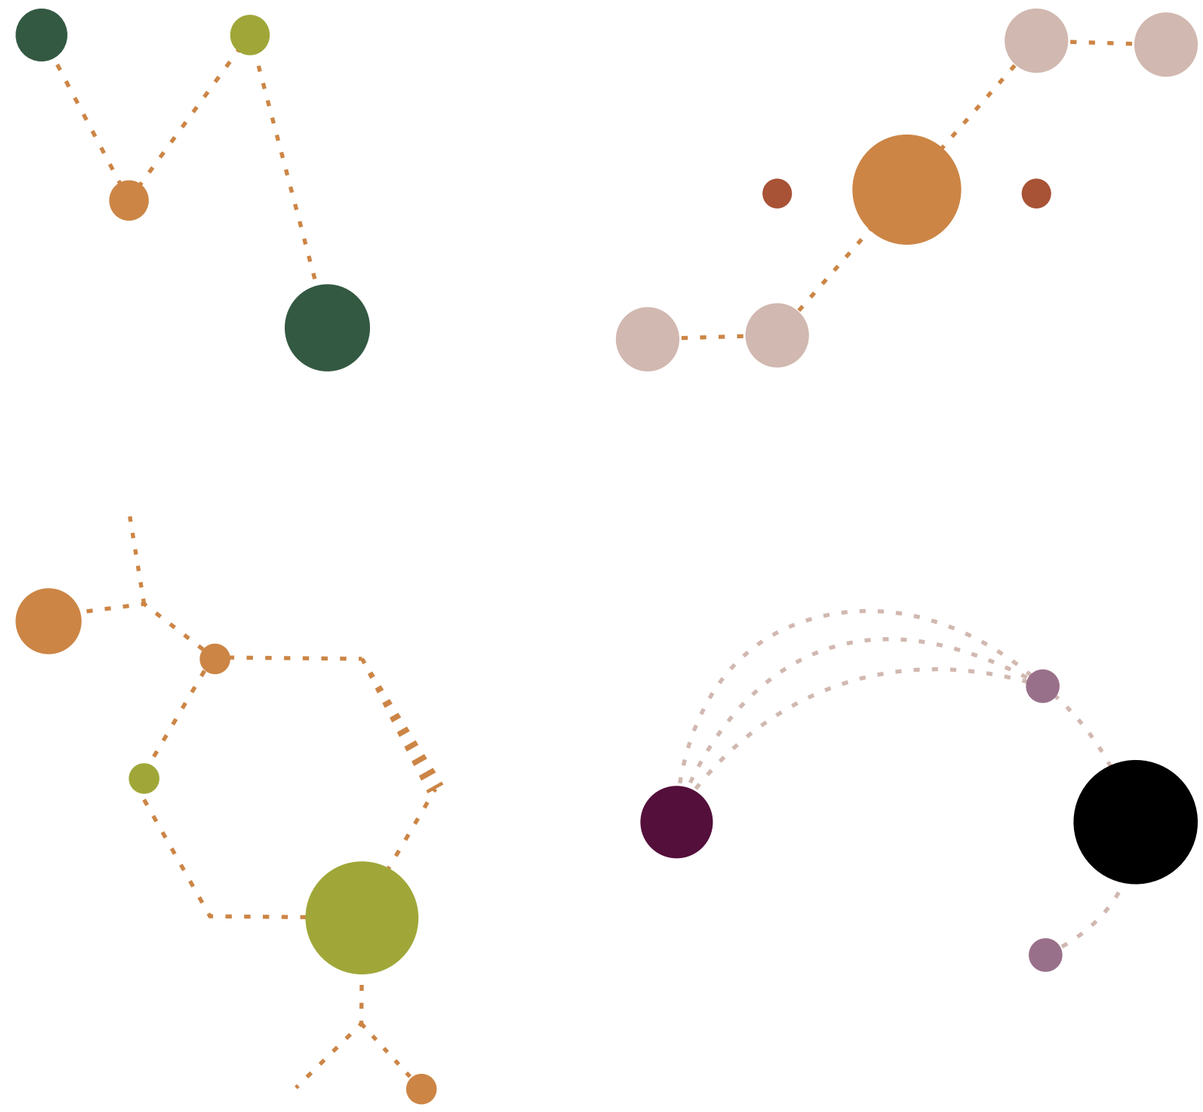

Illustration Style

The illustrations visually communicate infinite number of possiblities that the building blocks can be combined to create unique applications.

The brand illustrations always follow a dot and line style to stay consistent with the concept of connecting the dots.

The colours used are from the brand palette, to ensure a consistent visual look.

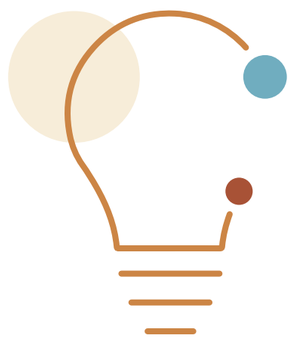

Iconography

Borrowing from the illustration style, the icons are treated like smaller spot illustrations.

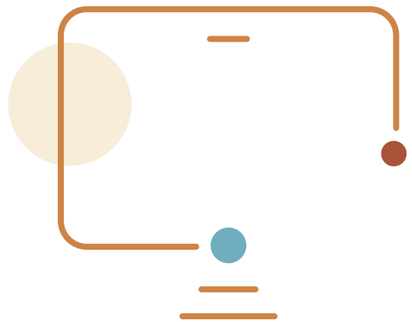

The icons focus on a singular idea or detail that visually explains the purpose of the icon, in this case, the icons represent some of the Sunbird building blocks.

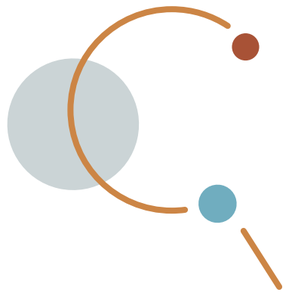

The incomplete connection of the two dots in the icons takes the logo concept forward in prompting a viewer's mind to complete the connection of dots to form a whole picture.

Apart from the two dots and line is a bigger transparent dot that moves along the solid line. This movement adds to the dynamic nature of the iconography for the brand.
